Dear Stratis,

The idea of a triple reading with Enzensberger, Mutis, and me, is wonderful. At least, I think so, and I think the people of Cambridge would come in droves to hear us. I, for one, would walk miles to hear Mutis and Enzensberger. I wouldn't go anywhere to hear myself. I keep trying to find places to go where I can't hear myself. So far, no success. Seriously, Stratis, I love the idea of reading with those two. Let me know what happens.

Yours,

Mary.

Dear Batuz, here's the Strand letter, and attached, the Mutis review. It was good talking with you on the phone and reviewing the entire situation. Attached is the Mutis review by Askold Melnyczuk, who is himself a novelist (and editor of Agni review, published by Boston University). All best, Stratis
